

WORKING REMOTELY

Connected in Cornwall

As technology brings the world closer together, the option of working from home has become more commonplace.

With less of a need to be in the same city as their company, more and more people are trading in the headaches of living in a big city for the exceptional quality of life found in Cornwall.

Located only an hour from Ottawa and Montreal, Cornwall is ideally situated for remote workers who have the options of alternative workplace arrangements. Starting with attractive housing that won't break the bank, Cornwall offers a robust fibre-optic infrastructure to keep you connected daily – and short travel times to the big city if you need to attend meetings.

Balance work with your own personal lifestyle needs.

Working out of your home office allows you to enjoy the urban amenities of Cornwall such as going for a jog along the Waterfront Trail or taking a break at one of our many cafés and bistros. You won't miss the traffic jams and parking hassles of the big city!
